Speaker: Antoinette Tuff

Speech Title: Prepared For A Purpose

Keynote Description:

Are you "Prepared for a Purpose?" After listening to keynote speaker and author, Antoinette Tuff, you will learn how to tackle life challenges when you least expect them.

"You have given me so many things to write down, that I am going to just tell myself in the years ahead!"

– Anderson Cooper

Antoinette shares her inspiring true story of how she grabbed headlines around the world and saved an Atlanta school under siege. To use Antoinette's own words: "Everything I had done in my life up to this point, prepared me for this moment—which was being alone with a gunman, his 500 rounds of ammunition and an angry promise to kill everyone, including himself."

She will show your audience specific ways how to push past the hurdles in life and in business. As she said in an interview with CNN's Anderson Cooper, "everything is going to be all right", "push pass the pain", and "I know what you are feeling, I've been there too".

It was her mindfulness in the moment that shifted an unstable, violent young man to see, in the midst of his own mental crisis, the possibilities of life, courage, compassion, and the faith of one woman who believed in him to do the right thing...surrender. Antoinette successfully rewrote this "potentially" tragic story's ending and shows her audience how to rewrite their story, as well.

What Attendees Can Expect:

Antoinette demonstrates confidently the "power of one", and how one person can transform a desperate situation into an exceptional one—at work, home and in our communities. This powerful keynote includes action items on how you can push past the pain with:
